

TESTIFIES AS TO R. R. ASSESSMENT

A hearing was held in the courtroom of the West Shore and Wallkill Valley railroads before Referee George McClellan at the city hall Thursday. The railroad in its petition asked to have its assessment reduced over $100,000. The testimony of Ralph R. Rumrill, who is an expert engineer, was given in behalf of the railroad and an adjournment was taken to November 24th and 25th when it is expected the trial will be completed. There has been many hearings in the proceeding. Amos Van Eiten is attorney for the West Shore and Wallkill Valley railroads and Judge Clearwater for the Ulster and Delaware railroad and Corporation Counsel William D. Brainer and Mayor Canfield for the city.

A PLEA FOR A SANE HALLOWE'EN

Vandalism or hoodlumism always mars the joys of this quaint custom of celebrating the last evening of October. The custom has been handed down to us from the time when the good will of the fairy spirits was sought by certain rituals, usually consisting of bonfires. At least the original idea of "All Saints' Day" was not to tip over ash barrels, carry away porch mats and chairs or otherwise cause discomfort or real loss to others.

However, in the minds of a large number of our boys, both large and small, there has existed a tradition for some generations that the evening of October 31 is a time not only of complete liberty, but a time when it is fitting and proper to perpetrate acts damaging to the peace and welfare of the community.

Now a tradition is a point of view which is passed on from one generation to another. Every act carried out by a boy on Halloween is prompted by ideas that were handed down to him directly or indirectly from older boys who pictured their pranks of former years in glowing terms and who described their most reprehensible tricks in such a manner as to encourage repetition in their young audiences. Such a tradition once established is difficult to eradicate, but it can be done away with by persistent effort. We know it can be eradicated, because the present Halloween tradition is entirely different from the original. Then why cannot the future tradition be made different from the present.

There are two factors which could contribute largely toward successfully combating the present undesirable tradition. The first is to cultivate a public sentiment against handing it down. Many a time we sit by placidly when we should remonstrate against older and even responsible people who in any way show sympathy with acts of vandalism. Any reference made to improper celebration of Halloween should stamp the act as one not to be committed, and it is the business of all of us to see that the ideas of hoodlumism and reprehensibility go hand in hand. Thus may a public sentiment be created against rough, unsocial and unenlightened action on that evening.

This first factor of creating a public sentiment counter to the common tradition may be valuable, but it is negative and must be supplemented by the substitution of a positive interest to replace that which we are trying to eliminate. Most children "raise a rough house" on Halloween simply because they do not know what else to do. They must be taught what real Halloween fun should consist of and be given an opportunity to indulge in it. They should be made familiar with the possibilities offered by the occasion.

Perhaps the schools could co-operate by taking up, in season, literature describing some Halloween celebrations that were "huldy good fun." Farbe parents might use the same means.

A further thing which parents might do and should do if they are really public spirited: Know what their children are doing on that evening and exert their influence to cause their children to be at least harmlessly occupied during that time.

K. H. S. PLAYS ALBANY SATURDAY
The Kingston High School football team expects to journey to Albany tomorrow and lineup against the Albany High School eleven. The local boys will have to hold hard if they keep Albany from scoring. Albany has a very heavy team and scrappy players. The Kingstonians are determined to win a great deal in a hard contest or struggle and the Kingston boys have plenty of it, so no doubt the contest will be most interesting.

The Wrong Side of Iron Cup.

SERVICE MEN OUT FOR RED CROSS

Lined Up Solid As City Workers At Thursday's Meeting and Today Men Who Learned Value of Greatest Mother First Hand Are Canvassing City—Mr. Stenaker's Message.

Confingsby Dawson told the people of Kingston that now we had to fight for the war after the war; the war for ideals! The service men of our community have heard that call the call of the Red Cross and answered it promptly, fully, just as they answered the earlier call to physical arms. When this newest call was sent out by Lieutenant Dittus, the men responded, just as he knew they would when he said "Red Cross," for that means the best there is in the world to every service man. Consequently there was a splendid showing of men who had been overseas and at our camps, at the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday evening, when the big Red Cross Christmas Roll Call for 1919 was started in the city. And the Freeman reporter would like to note right here that there wasn't much fuss nor excitement among the men as to this after-the-war job, they just squarely shut their mouths, looked as though they meant it and then had a mighty good time singing and enjoying the good dinner, which as Vice-Chairman Mahar announced was given by the executive committee of the drive, and which would take nothing from the fund to be raised.

Mr. Mahar, whom Chairman Cokendall had asked to preside in his place just at this time, called the meeting to order, in the gym of the Y. M. C. A. last evening, by asking Mr. Dodge to lead them all in singing America, which they did as it has not been sung before. The Rev. Mr. Cranston asked the blessing, and then while the dinner was being placed steaming hot, on the tables by the ladies of the Lowell Club and other members of the Federation of Women's Clubs, the men sang. Maybe you heard them where you live, for take it from one who knows a little about music, these lads of ours who have sung together on the other side, know how to sing. They sang, "Smiles" once, and then they wanted to sing it again, and then some more, and yet once again, so that altogether there were at least five, bright cheery "Smiles" such as Kingsborough has not been accustomed to. But the song that they sang with the greatest fervor was "The Rose of No Man's Land," and as most of us know that "rose," was the Red Cross nurse.

In his opening remarks Mr. Mahar thanked the service men for the time and aid they were about to give in behalf of the Red Cross. Then he thanked Harry P. Dodge for his appreciated aid, and he thanked the ladies who had given them such splendid service during the dinner. Speaking specifically to the men about to go out on the drive, Mr. Mahar told them that the city's alms, and said that if they went to the meeting next Monday night a report of at least three-fourths of that amount raised.

Already the publicity work had been well under way, as managed by the chairman, Sidney H. Hudson, while the newspapers of the city were generously lending their aid. "And," said Mr. Mahar, "there is one man not among us tonight, whom the community has learned to most highly regard and to have a real affection for, because of the untiring, efficient work done day after day and often far into the night, by this man who has spent as generously of his means as of his time and services, while you men have been serving overseas or in camps, and I want you to know of his service. That man is Frank Cokendall, chairman of this drive, whose heart is deeply in the success of this, like all other of our Red Cross drives. I know that on his behalf you will have added zeal to make this latest drive as much of a success as have all our former drives been." (Applause.)

Mr. Mahar then introduced the speaker for the evening, Clarence L. Stenaker, field director of the Bureau of Camp Service, Military Relief Headquarters, Atlantic Division of the American Red Cross.

Mr. Stenaker, like every other real Red Cross worker, is fairly boiling over with zeal in the cause of the American Red Cross, and gave the men present, who perhaps knew more about their own personal experience of the mercies of the Red Cross than of its general worldwide service to mankind, some valuable information with which to approach the people to whom they will go for Red Cross memberships. After telling briefly of what the Red Cross had done in previous wars, in terrible disasters, etc., by not only its service, but its instant and capable service, Mr. Stenaker called attention of the fact that after all the American Red Cross is the spirit of the common American people, and the American people want suffering and misery to be relieved wherever they know of its existence. At once, and what the American people want they work for and get.

The speaker said he needed not to tell those present what the Red Cross had done during the war, but what of the future of the Red Cross? There is still the colossal task of cleaning up Europe, and looking after our own still in the Army of Occupation in Germany. There are our young men in the army and navy, whom the Red Cross must continue to serve as it served our boys overseas. And it will not be long before every great battalion will have its Red Cross service men on board. Then there is still the marvelous hospital service being carried on for our wounded men returned to us to be restored to health and usefulness after being so frightfully disabled in service. That gave some idea of the military relief still to be carried on by the Red Cross.

Government testing 2-75 beer. Tests of the various brands of near-beer that was sold in lieu of the war time brew, are being made at the Government Laboratories in Washington. According to reports, many brands of the "near" beverage have proved far from "near." The photo shows one of the Government chemists examining 2-75 beer.

Then there is the mighty civilian work, for this war has shown the government and the people of our country that a great proportion of us are not leading the healthy, wholesome, happy lives that we should live. In order to help bring about these conditions of health and happiness, the Red Cross is now taking up a wonderful health campaign, furnishing nurses and Red Cross helpers for community health work, etc., so that even the remotest of our settlements may be reached and aided to a higher more wholesome standard of living. Does the Red Cross need memberships and money to do all this? There can be but one answer. "Yes," and will give the memberships and money.

And Mr. Stenaker said that the work must go on so long as there is need of help, and he firmly prophesied that the people of the various communities would see to it that the United States was ahead of the game each succeeding year.

Mr. Mahar before introducing the next speaker of the evening, told those present how much the committee appreciated the fact that the girls of the Motor Corps had offered their services for the drive, and asked Lieutenant White of the Motor Corps to speak. But as Lieutenant White is strong for action and less interested in talking about it she rose and said just that the Motor Corps girls proposed to do their part to put across the present drive, and sat down amidst hearty applause.

The next speaker was the Rev. Mr. De Moot of Wallkill, who always has a real live message to offer. This time the message was that of practical Christian service everywhere to everyone without regard to creed, as being the real spirit of the Red Cross, for which the men before him were asked to give this added service to the country. As he recited that beautiful poem, "The Spirit of the Red Cross," the men sat spellbound, realizing as the civilians could not, the full truth of the words. Mr. De Moot said there were three reasons for going out to get Red Cross memberships: first, we do not know and soon there may be another war and the Red Cross must be ready, as it was in this war when the country was otherwise so unprepared.

Second, we do not know how soon the Red Cross will be needed at home with labor gone mad, and riots and other disturbances menacing us.

Third, we never know when disasters by fire, flood, famine or sickness may befall us, and the Red Cross, so marvellously organized, be needed to come instantly to the rescue.

And in closing, Mr. De Moot said there were three ways in which the people of Ulster county were going to go about putting this drive across. They are going to it; they are not going to do it at all. They are going to do it now, and finally the speaker said he knew that the men before him were going to do it, do it now; do it now with all their might, this great work of love.

Local Dittus, who is leading this company of fighting men on this powerful drive, was the last speaker, and he briefly expressed his conviction, that however much the executive committee might be worrying at the time, he knew that the American Legion men and the Motor Corps girls would carry this county right over the top for the Red Cross. The speaker was then given out, and the details of the campaign fully explained to the workers.

Today many of the men who of out to ask you to become, for another year, members of the American Red Cross which did so much for them, and which doing for them, enabled them to help win the war, that comfort at home might be safe, comfortable and happy. Is there a man or woman or boy or girl in Kingston who will have the absolute lack of appreciation of the service of these men to such an extent that they will dare to refuse them when they come to their homes and ask for their membership? That could never be.

The next meeting of the Red Cross Christmas Roll Call Drive workers will be at the Y. M. C. A. next Monday evening at 9 o'clock, when reports to date will be received.

At the afternoon meeting instructions were given the workers by Chairman Mahar. Mayor Canfield delivered a stirring address, Secretary Hudson of the Chamber of Commerce urged that Red Cross work be not left unfinished and Mrs. Sarre of Yama Farms urged peace time work that was needed, especially public health nursing, in which she was endorsed by Mrs. Snyder of Saugerties, who spoke of the excellent work done by a public health nurse in that village.

POWELL KNOWS NEEDS OF WARD

Republicans Select Young Man Who Commands Respect of All Who Know Him—A Resident of the Ninth Ward for Fifteen Years.

In naming Philo J. Powell as the Republican candidate for alderman of the Ninth ward, the fact was kept in mind that a man was needed in the common council who was well acquainted with the needs of the ward, and a man who would use every effort to make the ward one of the most progressive in the city.

Mr. Powell is a young man who is thoroughly equipped to fulfill the duties required of him as an alderman, and who will reflect credit not only upon the ward he represents, but the city at large.

He is a son of Charles E. Powell, a former alderman of the Ninth ward, and a well known paper box manufacturer, and is connected with the father in the business carried on at the plant on Pine Grove avenue.

For twelve years Mr. Powell was an active member of old Company M, and he is a member of the Y. M. C. A.

He has been a resident of the Ninth ward for the past fifteen years, and is familiar with the ward and its needs. He is making an active canvass as far as his duties will permit, and it is expected that he will be elected by a large majority. He should receive the hearty support of the voters of the ward, irrespective of party affiliation.

Fair Street Chicken Dinner.

A chicken pie dinner will be served from 5 to 8 o'clock Tuesday, November 5, at the Fair Street Reformed Church. In connection with the dinner will also be a domestic booth, a home made candy booth and a fish pond, where you can always be sure of a good catch. Those who are going to contribute toward the domestic booth, and we hope there are many, kindly hand your articles to those who collected for them, or send them to the lecture room of the church on Monday afternoon so they can be marked for sale. Should it be impossible to send them before Tuesday they will be just as thankfully received.

Welfare Home Service.

This evening at 8 o'clock a welfare home service will be held at the Washington Street Church in honor of the boys who took part in the late war. A reception will be given in the church and the boys who were wounded will be given a special honor. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

MINERS ENJOINED FROM STRIKING BY JUDGE ANDERSON; WILSON RESTORES MAXIMUM COAL PRICES

OLD HAY PRESS PLANT BOUGHT

By Mrs. Jacobina Forst—Property Located on Cornell Street, and Known as Hendricks Plant—Bought as Speculation.

An important transaction in city realty was consummated Thursday, when what is known as the D. B. Hendricks hay press factory site on Cornell street, was conveyed by deed filed in the office of the Ulster county clerk by Sophie Bauer of the town of Ulster to Jacobina Forst, of Abel street. The property extends 177 feet along the right of way of the West Shore railroad and 222 feet along the easterly side of Cornell street and 86 feet along the line of property of the Standard Oil Company. Between the property at Ten-Brook avenue and corner of Cornell street is a 22 foot strip owned by the city, and a parcel of land with a frame dwelling owned by the Cochran estate. It is rumored the Cochran property is to be acquired by Mrs. Forst also. The sale of the property was made through the real estate agency of Oscar Addis, who is making a specialty of Second and Third ward realty. It was stated the plant was bought for speculation, and no plans for its future use were made as yet.

CITY FLUSHER FITS THE PAVEMENT

Kingston has ten miles of Willitts pavement covering an area of over 150,000 square yards.

A city that is wide-awake demands wear, cleanliness and sanitation in its pavements. They appreciate good, attractive qualities and freedom from interruption and continuous cost of maintenance.

It is too costly to pay men to pass brooms over the surface of these streets. A good pavement makes only one-half a street if it is dirty, unattractive, and unsanitary.

Kingston had an antiquated, obsolete, worn-out horse-driven flusher with gravity pressure. It was ineffective and costly.

Kingston purchased a Pierce-arrow chassis which had been operated by the army 500 miles and saved $1,500. It now has one of the best standard flushers with motor pressure which will serve the city's needs for ten years or more.

It will flush a square yard of pavement six times as quickly and six times as effectively and four times as cheaply as the old flusher.

Instead of a city employee laboriously sweeping the whole area of the paved streets and leaving any interstices filled with decayed filth, an application of water from the flusher will wash the smallest article of filth from its moorings and carry it to the sewer.

The Willitts pavement is non-adhesive and capable of thorough cleaning as it affords no crevices for the lodgment of particles dirt and filth. The flusher fulfills all requirements admirably and is an appreciated acquisition to help make Kingston a better and a cleaner place.

BACKWARD OR FORWARD

Second Ward Taxpayer Points Out Results of Mayor's Street Policy Compared With Metzger's Retrograde Movement.

Kingston, N. Y., Oct. 30, 1919.

Editor Kingston Freeman: Why not leave good enough alone when we have a mayor like Palmer Canfield, whose efforts to improve the streets of our beautiful city, should be appreciated not only by the taxpayers but by all citizens of Kingston. What finer streets are there than Albany avenue and Down street? Think of the improvement it has made to the property located on these streets as well as miles of other streets the same way, with a small extra cost to taxpayers. I, as a taxpayer for several years, hope that these improvements may continue, also the elimination of that most dangerous railroad crossing on Broadway. We do know what Mayor Canfield will do for the people of the city of Kingston, who has worked for the welfare of the people and the city. We also know what Mr. Metzger will do if he should get to be mayor—Sunday housecall and no more street improvements! I don't think the taxpayers have yet forgotten the big indebtedness of the city and a bankrupt treasury left by the former administration when the present mayor first took office. Taxpayers of Kingston don't let Mr. Metzger fool you when you have a mayor like the present one who is working for the best interests of the people and one whom you may trust.

FROM A SECOND WARD TAXPAYER.

Lever Act Invoked and Conspiracy Charged—Unionists Claim 400,000 Will Quit Work Tomorrow.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 31.—Officials of the United Mine Workers are enjoined from enforcing a nation-wide strike of bituminous coal miners under the terms of a temporary restraining order issued by Federal Judge A. B. Anderson here today.

Unlawful conspiracy to limit the output and facilities for the transportation of coal is charged in the proceedings.

Frank J. Hayes, president, John L. Lewis, vice president and acting president, William Green, secretary and 81 others comprising the executive board, the scale committee and district presidents who met here this week, and refused President Wilson's plea that the strike order be recalled, are the defendants.

The injunction provides that the miners' officials shall not issue final messages calling for the strike, or aid in enforcing continuance of the mines tie up. Immediate arrests for contempt of court will follow any attempts to continue strike plans, it was said.

Washington, Oct. 31.—President Wilson today issued an executive order restoring maximum coal prices, made by the fuel administration which were suspended when the fuel administration ceased its work.

This is the first step actually taken by the president in the coal situation.

The purpose of the order is to prevent profiteering during the period of the impending strike.

New York, Oct. 31.—Outstanding features of reports gathered by the International News Service today from the various coal-mining centers were:

1.—Union officials claim that all organized miners will obey the strike call tomorrow morning and that approximately 400,000 will quit work.

2.—The private consumer will feel the effect almost immediately while most of the public service corporations and big industries have from two to five weeks' reserve supply of coal on hand.

3.—In only a few localities are there any indications that disorders will break out.

According to the claims of officials of the United Mine Workers about 160,000 miners will strike in Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky. The chief danger spot in this district is apparently West Virginia. A big force of regular troops has been ordered into that state.

The great industrial belt around Pittsburgh will be hard hit. Officials of the miners' union claim that the corporations in that zone have only about 30 days' reserve supply of fuel on hand.

They have purchased and paid for 12 acres of wood land adjoining their property from which they get their wood.

They have built substantial and lasting farm buildings and paid for them.

They have equipped the City Home in necessary and proper manner and paid for it.

They purchase at wholesale all rice, sugar, flour, soap, oil, meat, canned goods, condensed milk, and all groceries and other purchases possible to do so advantageously. They eliminated the extra farm hand this year.

The greater part of their funds is expended for foodstuffs, clothing and fuel.

They have conducted their department with an average increase of less than 20 per cent in six years.

DUNBAR TELLS OF P. T. A. WORK

No. 7 Parent-Teachers' Association held one of the most successful meetings in its history when on Tuesday afternoon about fifty mothers were present to learn about the work of the P. T. A. and to hear a talk by Prof. Dunbar, of the high school, on "Objectives for a Parent-Teachers' Organization." A short business meeting was held and Miss Salzmann, who teaches the first grade at No. 7, gave a demonstration with seven of her little pupils which proved both amusing and instructive. These children counted up to 35, wrote the figures 1 to 10, inclusive, and gave answers, almost always accurate, to combinations of figures, the sum of which did not exceed nine, the figures being on cards held in the hands of the teacher who called the name of each child. Any mistakes were detected and corrected by the other children. Then the mistaken ones stood up until the same combination came again and they were given another chance.

Three little songs were sung delightfully by the children without a trace of self-consciousness, and only a desire to show mother just how they did in school. Miss Salzmann was limited as to time, and the fact that the children had been in school only eight weeks and that she has 52 children to instruct proved something of a drawback. However, the performance was thoroughly appreciated by everyone present.

Prof. Dunbar was then introduced and outlined the main objectives for an organization such as No. 7 is striving to establish:

First—To stimulate in the child an interest in his school work. This could be done, said the speaker, by the people at home taking an active interest in what the child was doing at school for no grown up even goes on day after day doing a thing with any progressiveness if there is no one to take an interest in him or give him any encouragement, and the child who comes home day after day, week after week, with no one to say to him: "What did you do in school today?" cannot be expected to go at his work with the attitude necessary for his best accomplishment of his tasks.

Second—To break down the barrier between teacher and parent. Some wrong attitudes were stated in detail, the parent saying to the teacher figuratively "It is your business to teach this child and I cannot concern myself with the process," or when the parent makes a suggestion the teacher feeling it to be an intrusion on ground where the parent does not belong. A sympathetic ground in relation to the best interests of the child must be found and there it will be found possible to work out any misunderstandings which arise.

A third objective to work for given in Prof. Dunbar's outline is a forum where these problems may be discussed and arranged so that all may be benefited as a consequence.

After the talk, tea was served by a group of mothers from Miss Salzmann's room. During the business meeting suggestions were made to the parents about planning a Halloween for the children, which would be pleasant for others as well as themselves. Prof. Dunbar added a few very pointed suggestions.

QUEEN'S PASSING RECALLS OTHER FAMOUS BOATS

The Mary Powell, Soon to Be Junked Recalls Past Glories of the Milton Martin, the Norwich, and the Oswego. All Berthed in Rondout Creek.

The passing of the Mary Powell, the old Queen of the Hudson, soon to be junked by the Hudson River Day Line, as exclusively told in The Freeman several weeks ago, recalls to mind the past glories of three other famous river boats who are berthed in the Rondout creek, with their days of usefulness fast drawing to a close—the Martin, Norwich and Oswego.

Of the four old time boats the Mary Powell is undoubtedly the most famous, and is without question the best known river steamer in the world. For the past two seasons she had not turned a paddle wheel, but she has been berthed at the Sunflower Dock. She will shortly be sold and sent to the scrap heap, but her memory will always be kept green in the hearts of the thousands who have trod her deck, and who have grown old watching her daily ploughing her way back and forth between this port and New York.

The Steamer Milton Martin of the Central Hudson Line, is another boat famous in the annals of Hudson river history. For the past two seasons she has been berthed at the Central Hudson Line dock in the rear of the coal pockets of Watts & Tammany. Indications are that it is hardly likely she will ever again see active service.

For years the Steamer Martin was on the Newburgh-Albany route, and was one of the first boats out in the spring and the one to close navigation in the winter. During the Civil war she was used as General Grant's dispatch boat on the Chesapeake and did much active service carrying messages and troops across the river and bay.

She was built in 1863, two years after the launching of the Mary Powell, which was placed in service in 1862. The Martin was launched shortly after the Civil war broke out, and was immediately pressed into service under General Grant.

During the dark days of the Civil war she was the greyhound of the inland steamers doing service in the war. Like the old Queen of the Hudson, she is a side-wheeler and has a wooden bottom. The Martin was always regarded as an ice-breaker, and no matter how heavy the ice was she always was able to plough through until word came to lay her up for the winter.

While the Mary Powell and the Milton Martin are the most famous of river steamers, there is no question but that the old Norwich known for years as the Ice King, and the Oswego, are the most famous tow boats in the history of the river. Both are side-wheelers and of wooden construction. They are berthed in the Rondout creek near the Island Dock. They belong to the fleet of the Cornell Steamboat Company.

The Norwich was built in 1837, and the Oswego was built in 1844.

The old Ice King was long noted for the staunchness of her hull, and for years she was used in keeping open a channel in the lower Hudson when the ice threatened to close it, before the laws were gotten through. She was able to plough through when steel-hulled boats failed.

The Oswego was long in active service towing on the Hudson, and while not as well known as the Norwich, which took part in the Hudson Fulton celebration ten years ago, is still remembered by old rivermen.

Both boats are kept in good condition by the Cornell Line but it is hardly likely that they will ever be placed in active commission.

MEMORABLE HEIGHTS.

Memorable Heights, Oct. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith, two sons and grandson, of New Durham, N. J., recently spent a few days with relatives in this place and vicinity.

Mrs. William Depp returned home on Tuesday after spending two weeks with her son and his wife at Canadilla.

There was some misunderstanding concerning the time for services in the Reformed Chapel on Sunday afternoon. Hereafter the hour will be 2 o'clock instead of 2, as formerly.

M. Depp of New Patz was a visitor at A. M. Green's on Sunday. Harold Van Eten spent Saturday evening with Rev. and Mrs. A. Quick and Sunday evening with his uncle, W. Depp.

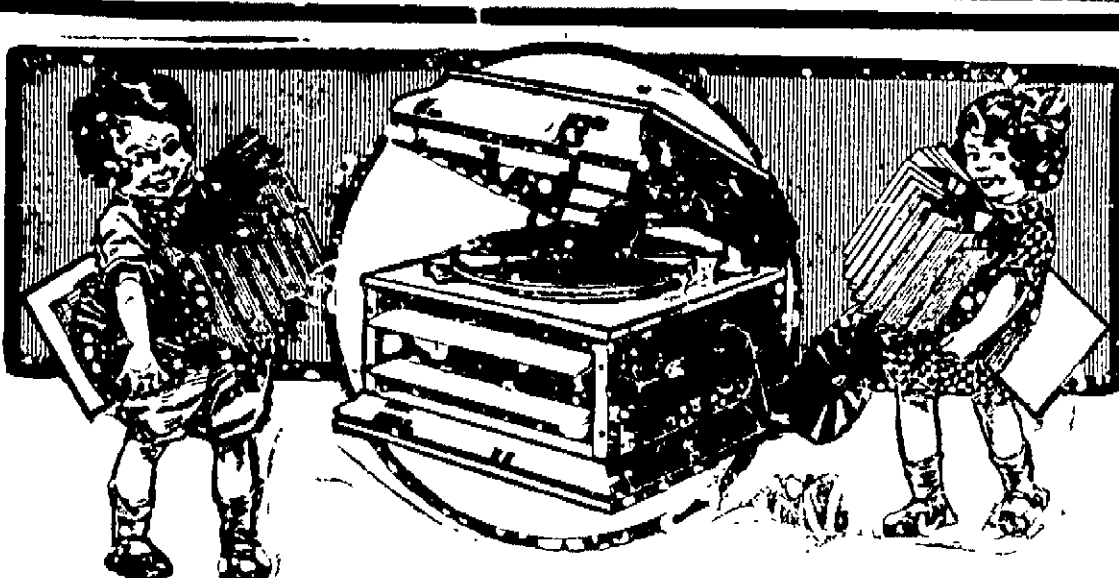

Warren Potter, Jr., whose former home was at Potterville, near this place, where the famous club house and dam for fishing is now located, spent a few days last week with Amos Van Eten. Mr. Potter, who is now a traveling salesman, was here on a hunting trip and to visit the old home place.

Van Dyke Churchwell of Kerkhousen and uncle, William Depp, motor to Kingston Sunday and called on Horace Hyman.

PRECIOUS STONES.

General's apartment, the diamond which was the subject of the article in the Freeman of Oct. 24, is now in the possession of the State of New York. The diamond is a large, rough, uncut stone, and is believed to be one of the largest of its kind ever found in this country. It was discovered by a prospector named John Smith, who was working in the mountains of New York. The diamond is now in the possession of the State of New York, and is being kept in a safe place until it can be properly cut and polished.

THE ISSUE.

The soft coal miners demand only five labor days a week and only six hours a day—hardly more than five hours a day, omitting time for going and coming—and for thus cutting down their productive capacity they have the assurance to demand 60 per cent increase in pay. To secure their utterly unreasonable demands they propose to strike and plunge the country into industrial chaos, stopping the operation of railroads, electric light and gas plants, street railway lines and many other public utilities, and at a time when the country's industrialism is already seriously handicapped by other strikes and continuing labor disturbances. In consequence President Wilson has issued an ultimatum virtually commanding the coal miners to refrain from an "unlawful" and incalculably disastrous step.

In such a crisis and in the presence of such an issue there is but one thing for Americans of all political parties to do. If they want to save the country, if they want to secure a measure of peace and safety in a time of unparalleled disturbance, if they want to see right and justice triumph, they must support the President in the stand he has very properly taken. If they do not do so, they will bring upon the country internal peril beyond precedent; they will virtually invite the forces of Bolshevism to take charge of all our public affairs and command the very government itself. The issue is clear and inescapable. Shall law, order and the Government rule, or shall the forces of anarchy triumph?

LET'S HOPE HE'S RIGHT.

Hermi Joe of the Big Kinzua, Pennsylvania, predicts a "darn mild" winter, basing his prediction on the fact that the woods folks, bears, squirrels, etc., are scantily equipped with fur this fall. Anybody who has priced a fur collar in the stores recently will be rather of the opinion that high prices account for the thin coats of American fauna. They may have decided to wear last year's coat, and so have we.

DEPORT THEM.

Practically one-half of the entire number of mine workers who threaten to tie up the United States in a strike which will bring misery and suffering to millions of people, are aliens. They have absolutely nothing in common with real genuine Americans. What is the answer?

DEAD, LIVING—LIVING, DEAD.

Five hundred members of the Canadian Club toasted T. R. one night during Roosevelt week. And less than two years ago the Canadian doughboys roasted Bill Bryan. T. R. is dead, yet lives. Bill Bryan lives, yet is dead. How strange is Fate!

ANTI-BRITISH FEELING.

Anti-British feeling has of late been worked up in this country to such an extent that it is thought by some that the Prince of Wales could not travel here without embarrassment and that the British government is glad to see in the President's "dinner" a convenient pretext for expelling the Prince's tour of this country. Though such a situation soon after we went to war as Great Britain's ally is greatly to be regretted, there can be no doubt that "kissing the lion's tail" has once more become a popular pastime in the United States. Such is the testimony of many observers, including Frederick W. Wile, an American war correspondent who during four months on the Chantawana circuit tested the matter and found strong anti-British prejudice in his audience. Mr. Wile attributes this largely to Stan Pein and pro-British agitators, the latter being "noisy rampants."

This observer believes, however, that the bulk of American public opinion is friendly to England, pointing out that even the hostile members of his audience admitted he had no test questions "How many British soldiers died in the war?" and "How many British ships were sunk?" and that the United States to declare war on the British empire to get Ireland's freedom? Stand up! In no case did anybody stand up. All this deliberately worked up anti-British feeling is an instructive illustration of what persistent propaganda can accomplish. If "cooked up" enmity toward a friendly nation can be spread so widely, no wonder it is possible for the Bolshevik poison to destroy our industrial peace.

OLD CLOTHES LEAGUE.

From time out of mind thrifty persons of small incomes have "turned" or made over their worn clothes and used them for all they were worth, but only now is this done proudly, openly and even with a hurrah. During the war patriotic advocates of conservation were heard to declare that nothing could be more honorable than old clothes, but it remained for excessive after-war prices to turn this sentiment into a concrete reality. In both England and America there is now an "Old Clothes League" devoted not merely to turning or patching up old suits but to the enthusiastic support of the policy. "No more new clothes until prices come down." And, according to report, such is its progress, so great is its membership, so many are its "chapters" organized at various points, that the custom tailors are filled with dismay.

It is seriously stated that those who sign the pledge "regard patches on trousers, shiny coat sleeves and worn-up splits in shoes as badges of honor." In certain particulars the accounts strain credulity somewhat, but the league is a fact and certainly its purpose is commendable. It is timely and if enough people can be induced to protest in this way against outrageous prices, some good ought to be accomplished. Obviously substantial results are apt to depend on the number of the recruits and their endurance after the first enthusiasm has passed. Meanwhile all thrifty persons outside of a rather spectacular organization will buy as sparingly as possible at present prices and await better times.

FRENCH POODLE TED IN COURT

May Wood of Connelly Claims Ted as Hers, and John M. Schussler Says She is Mistaken—Court to Decide Ownership of Ted.

Ted is a handsome French poodle and if a dog can have worries on his mind Ted is doing some worrying at the present time, but he hopes to rid himself of them in a satisfactory manner on November 5, when the question of whom he shall call his owner will be decided in city court. May Wood of Connelly claims that Ted is her dog, while John M. Schussler, of No. 218 Catherine street, this city, says that she is mistaken, and that Ted is his property. Chris J. Planagan represents May Wood, while Robert G. Groves represented Mr. Schussler.

Mr. Schussler was the owner of a French poodle, and he claims that Ted is the exact image of his dog, and in fact that the dog in question is his dog. One day the poodle was missing. Later he learned that May Wood had a dog that looked just like his, and on September 15, Mr. Schussler secured possession of it. That started court action as May Wood claims that she had bought the dog. She values Ted at $50. The case was set down for trial in Judge McKenney's court of justice in Port Jervis, but was adjourned.

Wednesday May Wood, through her attorney, started replevin action in city court to obtain possession of Ted. The necessary papers were drawn up and placed with City Marshal Arthur Rice to serve. That evening the city marshal called at the home of Mr. Schussler and obtained Ted.

Later Mr. Schussler furnished bond for $100 until the case was decided in court, and was given possession of Ted until the ownership is definitely decided one way or the other by the city judge, when the case is tried.

Two ways to buy clothes

One way is to look around until you find the lowest price.

The other way is to go where you'll find the best quality.

The first way you'll save a few dollars at the start then in a few months you'll have to have new clothes; what you save on the price is taken out of the quality of the clothes.

The second way will bring you here for Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes. They'll wear so long and give so much satisfaction that in the course of a year or so you'll save the price of a suit; because you won't need so many clothes.

Which is your way?

First Thing is, Get to Work.

Right decisions increase the quality and volume of work done. It often happens that a fellow gets more to do than he knows how to get away with. Such situations make some people afraid and they can't do their best. At other times folks get confused and begin to worry about the outcome. Sometimes they just stop work and debate what to do next. It's a pure waste of time. To be sure you must use your head and do the best thing if you are to make the most of life. But there's little gained by acting the "Shall I or shall I not" comedy. The thing to do is to decide what to do and do it. If you don't do the best thing first it next. But above all things do something. The very fact that you are doing helps you think better and do more.

Especially the Walking Kind.

GEO. C. KIRCHNER HAS MADE GOOD

People of Seventh Ward Have Nothing to Regret in Throwing Off Yoke of Democratic Inefficiency Two Years Ago.

Two years ago the residents of the Seventh ward, smarting under the yoke of Democratic inefficiency, decided to make a change in their representation in the board of aldermen. They elected George C. Kirchner, a Republican. Today these people are more than thankful for the change they made. They realize now what it is to have an alderman who has the interests of the people at heart and not those of a clique of politicians. They have nothing to regret in the election of Mr. Kirchner. He has proved efficient and capable. He has endeavored to serve them to the best of his ability.

Mr. Kirchner is again the Republican candidate for alderman of the Seventh ward, and there is no reason to believe that he will not be re-elected. Mr. Kirchner is a life long resident of the ward. He is popular among the people and respected. His one aim in the board of aldermen the past two years has been to secure improvements of conditions in the ward. Mr. Kirchner is active in fraternal circles being closely identified with Rapid Hose Company. He is making an active campaign in his ward and is receiving enthusiastic support from people of all parties, people who want an honest, clean and representative.

Veria Found Guilty.

Lorenza Veria, the Italian charged with the killing of Baby Brown at Highland Falls some time ago, and who was arrested by Sheriff Smith and Deputy Seth Jocelyn at Eddyville, was found guilty in supreme court at Newburgh Thursday and sentenced to life imprisonment. When arrested Veria signed a written confession. At the trial, his attorney attempted to prove that the frame was a frame up staged by Baby Brown and her lover, whose name was not given. The story given on the witness stand did not entirely tally with Veria's confession made to the authorities here.

What Broke the Show.

"Yes!" sighed the opera manager, "we had a pretty rough season every way. But what took it out of me was the row between De Becker, the leading tenor, and De Squalchi, the prima donna. You know what an awkward stage presence De Becker has? Well, he stepped on De Squalchi's train 18 times during one performance, and the next night she came on as Marguerite in bloomers. That came near breaking us."

ELLENVILLERS RUE INVESTMENT

Mrs. Holman Sues To Recover Money Invested in Removable Letter Sign Company—Other Residents Also Involved.

An action which will undoubtedly interest a large number of Ellenville people was begun Thursday before Supreme Court Justice G. D. B. Hasbrouck. Helen B. Holman of the village of Ellenville has brought an action against R. R. Forrester, et al., to recover for stock which she bought in 1913 in a company which she claims was promoted by the defendant and of which he was an officer. The interest which will be shown in Ellenville is due to the fact that a score of other people of the village also invested in the same stock and although the stock was represented as a good thing, it never has paid the 20% dividend which the stockholders hoped to get. Mrs. Holman it appears, purchased some 43 shares of Alpha Sign Company, Inc., stock in the fall of 1913, the stock having been well represented to her. Later the company failed to pay any dividend and the promoters of the company, according to her testimony, stated that the company had been hampered in its work and a new company was to be organized and incorporated in the state of Delaware, the new company would have a vast field to work in and would carry the product into Canada and the stockholders would secure a large return. The new company was organized and Mrs. Holman turned over her stock in the Alpha Company and secured 52 shares in the new company which was known as the Removable Letter Sign Company.

The concern was to manufacture and place on the market some illuminated advertising device for show windows.

While on the witness stand Thursday morning Mrs. Holman stated that during the time that she had been dealing with the defendant and Clarence B. Fortier, also of New York city, she had parted with some $17,000 which she had nothing now to show for. Just what the deals were were not stated but beside the $17,000 which the Removable Letter Sign Company had removed from her possession there was a considerable sum which was lost through an investment in a Merchant Tailor Company, also a Delaware Corporation. Mrs. Holman stated that she thought she had invested some $6,000 on two occasions in that concern and had received nothing from it.

From the testimony of Mrs. Holman on the stand she had been dealing with Clarence B. Fortier, who represented or was agent for A. B. Leach & Company of New York, and he had invested considerable money for her in stocks and bonds. In 1913 the advantages of the Alpha Sign Company was brought to her attention. Mr. Fortier and Mr. Forrester called on her at Ellenville and together they talked over the new company and its prospects. Mr. Fortier about this time ceased to be connected with A. B. Leach & Company and with Mr. Forrester he came active in the new company. Mr. Fortier and Mr. Forrester are brothers-in-law.

In September after several consultations Mrs. Holman in exchange for 43 shares of the Alpha Sign Company stock gave 25 shares of Mutual Film, common stock, which paid a dividend of 12% per cent, and was valued at $95 a share; 10 shares of Laycock Power Company, valued at $90 a share; one $1,000 bond of the Alpha Company to the amount of $4,300 was taken in exchange. Since that time the stock of either the Alpha Company or its successor, the Removable Letter Sign Company, has never paid any dividends and inquiry by Mrs. Holman later brought out the fact that the stock which she secured has no market value.

Ex-Mayor William D. Brinnier, of the firm of Brinnier, Canfield & Brinnier, appeared for Mrs. Holman, and Senator Charles W. Walton appears for the defendant. The action is really an action for fraud, the defendant claiming that the stock in the company which she bought was bought under a misrepresentation.

Just how much stock in the companies in question was absorbed by capitalists of Ellenville is not known but there were several investors and in some instances the amounts involved are said to be considerable.

Fortier while connected with A. B. Leach & Company had acted as Mrs. Holman's agent in making investments for a long time previous to the purchasing of the stock in the sign company, and it appears that Mrs. Holman invested in the sign company stock only after she had been advised by Mr. Fortier that the stock seemed good as represented by Forrester, who was one of the officials in the company.

A large amount of testimony was taken and the case was continued during the afternoon.

Always Room at the Top.

There's a world of opportunity for men to become great in these days. Not without foresight do not see situations until others fill them. Then they holler about everything worth while being gobbled up. But some one has to be the ground breaker. And it's the ground-floor man that reaps the big dividends when the reaping comes. And even in established things there is room for forward steps. Men have made soap ever since they needed such articles. It was left for William Colgate a poor boy, to become the world's greatest soap maker. They made steel long ago. It was left to Carnegie to perfect processes that have revolutionized the business of the world. And yet Carnegie came to America in the steerage. If you have the right thing within you can make the things without make way for your upward march.

Lieutenant Waterhouse.

Lieutenants Cecil H. Connolly of San Diego, and Frederick B. Waterhouse of Weiser, Ida., United States army aviators missing since August 21, were slain by two Mexican fishermen in lower California, according to an official announcement made at San Diego. The announcement was made on the arrival at San Diego of the destroyer Aaron Ward, bringing the bodies of the two aviators from Bahia Los Angeles, on the gulf of lower California, to which point they had flown after losing their way in a border patrol flight from Yuma, Ariz. The slayers of the aviators, according to the announcement, were from a Mexican sloop, and are known to the American and Mexican authorities.

No Worry About Coal There.

A considerable portion of New Zealand is volcanic, with apparently only a thin crust between the surface and the flows of the center of the earth with geysers, hot springs and boiling mud holes in countless numbers. These last are often used by the natives. Maoris are said to cook their fish, pork and potatoes. In many districts it is never necessary for them to light a fire. The hot pools are much in temperature, ranging from just enough to warm the water for a delightful bath, to that of boiling point. They are of unknown depth, probably bottomless, boiling today the same as they were 300 years ago. The water was cracked, and when only these few islands were left.

Doctor Issues Warning And Tells How to Conquer Excessive Desire for Tobacco

New York: Dr. Connor, formerly of Johns Hopkins Hospital, says: I am often asked if I know anything to stop the tobacco habit and I always recommend Nicotol, which I have prescribed with great success. Nicotol contains no habit-forming drugs, is absolutely harmless and produces astonishing results in a very short time. The excessive use of tobacco saps the vitality, vim, vigor and ambition of the slave who is enslaved by its seductive effects. It undermines the health and leaves the victim an easy prey to general debility, throat and lung troubles, nervousness, insomnia, loss of memory, trouble, headache, tongue and lip cancer and even blindness. Physicians the world over often trace the start of the above diseases and many others to nicotine poisoning.

If you want to free yourself from tobacco go to any drug store and ask for Nicotol tablets. Take one tablet after each meal and in a short time you will have no desire for tobacco—the craving will have left you. With the nicotine poisoning out of your system your general health will quickly improve. Note: When asked about Nicotol tablets, one of our leading druggists said: "It is truly a wonderful remedy for the tobacco habit—away ahead of anything we have ever sold before. We are authorized by the manufacturers to refund the money to every dissatisfied customer and we would not permit the use of our name unless the remedy possessed unusual merit." Nicotol is sold to this country under an iron-clad money-back guarantee by all up-to-date druggists including Connelly Drug Co. and Ten Broeck Pharmacy.

New YorkVAN RETIRES THIS EVENING*Policemen Cornelius Van Buren's Last Trick of Duty as Member of Local Force Ends at P. M.—Nearly Quarter Century of Service.

As curfew tolls 8 o'clock this evening Policeman Cornelius Van Buren retires from service as a member of Kingston's police department after nearly a quarter century of active and efficient service. He carries with him the honor and respect of his fellow members of the department, as well as the respect of the city at large.

As exclusively told in The Freeman at the time Officer Van Buren filed his resignation with the police board some time ago to take effect November 1. The resignation was accepted with regret. After 8 o'clock this evening it will be Mr. Van Buren instead of Policeman Van Buren. Mr. Van Buren will remain in Kingston for a few days settling up his business affairs and then will leave for the west where he will make his home with his children.

Policeman Van Buren was appointed a member of the police force and assumed his duties on May 22, 1895, and would have rounded out a quarter of a century of service if he had remained until May of next year. During the past twenty-four years there has never been a more efficient or courteous officer wearing a uniform of the department. He was a man who could always be depended upon to do his duty.

Before he became a member of the police department he was a night watchman at the cigar factory of Powell, Smith & Company, now the American cigar factory. Before that he had served as night watchman for other concerns.

As the years have passed by Officer Van Buren has seen many changes in the business and social life of the city. There have also been many changes in the police department. The only men still in active harness on the police force who were serving when he was appointed to the force are Officers Shader, Snyder and Ryan.

As man and boy, Officer Van Buren has been a life long resident of Kingston. He was born on Prospect street.

As he retires from active service this evening he carries with him the well wishes of his fellow members of the police department, and the entire city. In his retirement the city loses an efficient officer whose position it will be hard to fill.

With the stepping aside from active duty of Officer Van Buren there are two vacancies on the police force. The other vacancy is that caused by the resignation of Officer John K. Dunn, who is now working on a local shipyard.

It drops one hundred feet at this point and the explosion is terrible. The lava is red for some distance after it reaches the water. It is certainly a most interesting and picturesque scene.

DOE LAW MAKES MANY HUNTERS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, Oct. 31.—Unprecedented demand for hunting licenses is keeping the Conservation Commission "on the jump" filling requests from all over the state for supplies of licenses and buttons to supplement those already exhausted. Never in the history of the commission, says Llewellyn Legge, chief of the Division of Fish & Game, has there been such a rush for licenses as this fall. The unusual demand is attributed partly to the large number of recruits in the hunters' ranks from among men who have had their first experience of handling firearms in military service; partly to a continuance of the same vacation spirit which has kept all resort hotels and boarding houses filled to capacity this summer; and partly to the new law, in effect for the first time this season, by which a hunter may be shot in the Adirondacks, as well as bucks. There is no question, according to the commission, that the greater prospect of securing a deer, now that the bars have been let down for both sexes, has attracted thousands of new hunters to the Adirondacks who have never been deer-hunting before.

In spite of the fact that the Conservation Commission made definite provision for increased hunting this fall, the demand for licenses has so far exceeded all previous records that additional cards and buttons may yet have to be secured from the manufacturers. Already 275,000 resident licenses have been printed, which is ten per cent more than in previous years—the order for the last three years having been 250,000.

As an example of the quite unprecedented demand for licenses, the Conservation Commission cited the fact that calls for additional supplies were recently received from thirty-two different county clerks in one day. Under ordinary conditions these clerks would have had sufficient licenses to carry them to the end of the season.

The Commission states that under this unusual pressure it is doing all in its power to prevent inconvenience or delay in the issuance of licenses. Books, buttons and record cards are being rushed from Albany as fast as they are applied for and, in addition, supplies are being shifted from town clerks' offices where there may be a surplus to points where a shortage has developed.

An old time fair will be held the week beginning November 18 by Charles DeWitt Council, No. 91, Jr. O. C. A. M., closing the evening of November 22. Already a large number of tickets have been sold, and those who expect to attend should secure their tickets early.

The supper this year is under the chairmanship of Edward N. Snow, the Daughters of America and the wives and lady friends of the members of the Mechanics.

The program committee has arranged many pleasant attractions for every evening during the entire week. Curt Shurtz's singing orchestra will furnish music the five nights. The other events for the week will be announced later.

Plans are being drawn by Architect George E. Lowe for the installation of bowling alleys to be placed in the basement of the building on Henry street as soon as possible.

CENTRAIS REORGANIZED.

Last Year's Basketball Champs Have Same Fast Talent.

The Central Athletic Club basketball team has been reorganized for the coming season and has begun practice under the leadership of Manager Jacob Myers, and he and all those who knew the players are satisfied that he has the best array of basketball talent that can be found in the city. In the list are Gregory, Kiernan, Hughes, the Bourke Brothers and S. Seger, all fast ones. Lovers of the game will remember that the Central Athletic Club basketball team won the city championship last year, defeating the famous Triangles. They are now ready to meet any team in the state. The boys have arranged to hold a reception and dance at Mechanics' Hall, Henry street, on Monday evening, November 10, and have engaged Shurtz's instrumentalists to furnish the music for the occasion.

MUSTARINE

The Strong Arm

By ALVAN JORDAN GARTH

To the stranger in Winton, a view of the great brick structure devoted to the principal industry of the town might have suggested the idea that the same was a school of pugilism. Upon the broad towering chimney there was the one sign of the place, a bare human arm with sinews ponderous, clenched fist and sledge hammer like, and the muscles of the arm above the elbow bulging and exaggerated.

The big picture was a trademark familiar in trade circles for half a century. It was the brand, sign manual and coat of arms so to speak of Armstrong & Company. They were manufacturers of tools and every one of these was stamped with, or bore in bold relief that trademark, its own advertisement the world over. Levi Armstrong, the founder of the business, was proud of it. He was a man of muscle himself, but past his prime, and his favorite workmen were the huskiest and heaviest he could pick out.

The general overseer and factotum about the place was Dan Dempsey. He had been so long with Armstrong & Company that he had become a petted favorite, and spoiled. He was a model of what the Armstrong insignia stood for—strength. In a city place or resort Dan would have been an ideal bouncer. People said that Levi Armstrong kept him around as a living example of strong arm excellence, and to suppress turbulence among the workers when the same seemed imminent.

Levi Armstrong was a disappointed man. He had married at thirty-five, and his wife had died within the first year of their union. He had waited until he had prospered to build the finest residence in the town, and he led a lonely life in the same after his bereavement. With neither child nor child of his own he adopted Lena Farrell, the orphan child of a half sister, had hired a nurse for her, and as she grew up, centered all his attention and interest upon the little child.

Lena was sixteen when Levi Armstrong brought home one day a shy, but well-mannered lad of her own age. He introduced him as Gilbert Thorne. The closest friend of his own boyhood had sent him the boy from a foreign country whither he had gone to live. Every other member of his family and himself had died of a pestilence. He recalled to Armstrong their youthful vows to stand by each other. Armstrong was nothing loath to have a second object of interest to fill his lonely life. Gilbert stayed at his home for a month and he and Lena became constant companions. Then he was sent away to school and did not see Lena or his benefactor until four years later.

Levi Armstrong wore an expression of utter disappointment upon his face as he sat with his lawyer in his private office at the plant, a month after the graduation of Gilbert. The latter had been put at work as a timekeeper and, book in hand, was passing the window outside. Suddenly Gilbert was confronted by a great giant of flesh and muscle.

"Just look at that, now!" exclaimed Levi Armstrong in a tone of mingled contempt and bitterness.

Dan Dempsey had met young Thorne. He was playfully overflowing with his usual full animal spirits. He had seized Gilbert as he would a child and lifting him in one hand held him out at arm's length without effort.

"You are expecting too much, Armstrong," spoke the lawyer, quickly analyzing the emotions of his client. "The young fellow is bright as a dollar."

"It isn't that," responded Old Levi. "Look at him, tall, thin, almost sickly looking. Just fancy what it would mean to me to have a comfort in my old age in a strong, muscular lad who would fitly represent my strong arm ideal. I like Gilbert and so does Lena, but he will never be a practical worker, and as to Lena, of course she can have her pick of a husband among those of wealth and social position."

"Armstrong," spoke the lawyer abruptly. "I plainly see that your hobby of muscular strength is working an injury for a capable, willing lad. You are right, he does not look strong, but what can you expect of a lad shut in to study of the hardest kind for four long years? Give me the boy for six months, let him live on my down country farm and note the change."

Gilbert went to the farm. A week later Lawyer Sloan sent thither also a client awaiting trial named Reddy Walters, expatriated. Six months later Levi Armstrong glanced from his office window, staring hard at a young man crossing the yard. It was Gilbert Thorne, but a new Gilbert Thorne, robust, broad, straight as an arrow, his entire pose suggesting a model of perfect manly strength. Dan Dempsey, coming into view, hailed Gilbert. "Well, well, my little lieutenant, grown, haven't you?"

There followed some mild badinage, a friendly challenge from Gilbert, and the next thing Levi Armstrong saw was the lad engaged in a wrestling match. There was a severe tackle, skill, and muscular strength, a quick clutch the expatriated had taught his apt pupil, and for the first time in his life Dan Dempsey was downed. "That clever young Thorne has won his spurs," said Lawyer Sloan to the wife that evening. "And a life here, and a rich wife at the same time," he added, with a twinkle of satisfaction.

High Priced and Low Stated. "It is a little difficult to describe your case. Perhaps you have been eating too much?" "Possibly," he admitted. "This hotel is run on the European plan."

Intellectual Snobbery.

I need to know a man who carried always with him a Russian novel in the original; not because he read Russian, but because a day might come when, as the result of some accident, the "books of the forenoon" would be exposed to the public gaze. As he said, you never know; but the only accident which happened to him was to be stranded for 12 hours on a beach. After this he maintained that the Russians were uneducated. A. A. MINISTERS AND
THE RED CROSS

The pastors of the churches of Kingston are requested to bring before their congregations the third Red Cross roll call, November 2 to 11, 1919, on Sunday, November 2. The Red Cross cannot let go as long as there is misery in our country and the world to be relieved. The wreckage of the war must be gathered up and cared for and in addition the society must continue and enlarge its operations for fundamental health and welfare. All the members of the Kingston Ministerial Society are requested therefore to bring this matter to the attention of their congregations.

CHARLES G. ELLIS,
President of the Kingston Ministers Association.

It is a play of the indefatigable and silent power of the Secret Service—a play of gripping force and magnetic power that gives Harold Lockwood a role which brings out clearly and distinctively his tremendous individual abilities. It is the moving story of a young patriot—a member of the British Secret Service—who, although not in the fighting uniform of his country is, nevertheless, doing as dangerous and important work as any in a manner which sends the blood tingling into every nerve and make the pulses leap to the daring loyalty of the young patriot.

SHOULD VOTE EARLY TUESDAY

Due to the Heavy Registration It Means Voting One a Minute at Polling Places—Those Who Come Late Liable to Lose Vote.

With a registration of nearly 11,000 in Kingston for the election Tuesday it means that in every ward the election officials will have to vote one person each minute in order to get the vote in. This means that every one should vote as early in the day as possible. There are over 4,000 women voting this year and it would be a good idea for them to plan to get to the polls before noon or right after luncheon. If they wait until the last minute they are liable to lose their vote.

The polls will open at 6 o'clock in the morning and close promptly at 6 o'clock that afternoon. The advice to vote early applies to the men as well as the women. Many who wait until after 5 o'clock to vote may lose their vote.

SHOULD ELECT HENRY ULRICH

Republican Candidate For Alderman For Eighth Ward Will Give Efficient Service to Taxpayers.

Henry Ulrich, the Republican candidate for alderman of the Eighth ward, has a keen sense of the duties of an alderman. He believes that an alderman should represent the people, rather than be a mouthpiece for a political party. He is of the opinion that an alderman does not fulfill his duties merely by attending meetings of the council and voting "yes" or "no" on a question, but only when he has done everything possible for the people whom he represents and who have placed their trust in him. Mr. Ulrich believes that the affairs of the Eighth ward can be administered more efficiently and to the better satisfaction of the taxpayers than is being done at the present time. He believes that an alderman should go to a council meeting with the sole purpose of caring for the business of his ward and the city, and not for the purpose of aiding some other alderman in a pet scheme.

Mr. Ulrich has been a resident of the Eighth ward for a number of years. He is thoroughly acquainted with matters pertaining to the ward, and is "alive" to what is needed in the city as a whole. He has always been an adherent of Republican principles of honest government. It is to the interest of the residents of the Eighth ward that Mr. Ulrich be elected.

Mr. Lencke Buys a Home.

J. W. Lencke of the Apollo Magneto Corporation has purchased of Mrs. John J. Campbell the residence at the corner of Downs street and South Manor avenue, recently occupied by Thomas J. Dempsey and is having it renovated in readiness for occupancy by his family next week.

DEBS CASE IS A PRECEDENT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 31.—Contempt of court proceedings will be brought against the strike leaders if they fail to obey the injunction of the court restraining them from striking, it was learned at the department of justice this afternoon. Officials refused to comment until the injunction had become effective but they cited the Debs case, in which an injunction against a strike was disobeyed and contempt of court proceedings followed.

Also Turned In.

Two additional liquor licenses were turned in this morning, those of Joshua DuBois of Wilbur avenue, and John Conlin of John street.

STILL HOPE FOR TRAPPED MINERS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Amsterdam, Ohio, Oct. 31.—"We have a good fighting chance of reaching the twenty miners entombed and we are fighting like hell to reach them."

This was the declaration today of Superintendent Richard Jones of the ill-fated No. 2 coal mine of the Youghiogheny and Ohio Coal Company, in which twenty miners have been entombed for 48 hours.

He held out hope that some would still be living when reached. Mine rescue squads from Columbus and Pittsburgh aided by miners working in squads of 35 are boring their way through the choked up entries fighting the fire as they go by by walling it off.

"Snowbound."

This is the day when the sacredness of the home and the family should be emphasized and also defended against all foes. They existed before the church and they are of divine origin. As the home, the school and the church are the nation will be, for these give to it shape and character. In Whittier's lovely poem, "Snowbound," which will be the topic of Dr. Baragwanath's sermon at the St. James Church on Sunday night, the beauty and influence of home life will be emphasized and illustrated. The preacher will tell the story of the poem. The quartet will assist in rendering very appropriate music and familiar melodies pregnant with home memories will be played. The next subject in the series on the Gospel in literature will be "The Idylls of the King."

CHAS. W. CARD IS ACCOMODATING

Has Made an Excellent Clerk for the Town of Esopus and Should be Re-Elected on November 4.

Charles W. Card, the Republican nominee for clerk of the town of Esopus, has always used his influence for the advancement and improvement of the town. As the present town clerk, he has given the office his personal attention and has given the town a public office which is private when necessity calls for it. He has been thorough in the town's business and accommodating to the citizens. He has put the business of the town on a more up-to-date basis.

Mr. Card was born in Stamford, Conn., March 9, 1866, the son of Capt. Benjamin W. Card, a veteran of the Civil War. He came to New York state in 1885 and took up the study of pharmacy. Four years later he received his license as a registered pharmacist. In 1895 he located in the town of Esopus, opening a drug store. Mr. Card married Caroline Yocum, daughter of Isaac Yocum, prominent public official and business man of Peekskill and one of the leading Republicans of Westchester county. Mr. Card has always stood for uprightness and honesty in politics and town officials. He has always been a true Republican and has always worked for and approved things which are best in the party. His knowledge of the town's business and the town clerk's duties puts him in a position to be of great service to his fellow citizens.

KOLTS VS. WESLEY.

Postoffice Amateurs To Stage Boxing Bout.

Two of Uncle Sam's post office department employees have decided to make their fist debut without any formal announcements or further publicity. Henry "Kid" Wesley, a clerk in the central post office and "Bull" Kolts, a carrier of the central division have agreed to put on the gloves for a little bout on Election Day, afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. "Kid" Wesley, who will go into the ring at 135 pounds, has been caught doing some clever fist work at the Y. M. C. A. However, so far as is known, he has never been credited with a knockout, but once lost on a foul to "Kid" Center of this city. This bout occurred early last spring at the Y. M. C. A., when Wesley was new at the game.

"Bull" Kolts will step inside the ropes at 145 pounds. He is credited with a decision over "Spooker" Drautz, another post office employee, well-known in the pugilistic world. It is understood, by many, that Kolts has a fast sparring partner, Fireman Jones of the Central Fire Station.

Both men have been carefully trained for the coming event for the last month, and are in the "pink" of condition.

MILK DEALERS REST.

Creamery Gives Notice That It Will Receive No Milk.

Says the Gardiner Weekly: Local milkmen are having another "vacation." Last Saturday morning they brought their milk to the creamery as usual but when they arrived there the news that they had arrived surprised them. They were told that the creamery would receive no milk at all until further notice. Micro-organisms abounded in the milk received from a small number of the dairies, according to report. This is the reason given for the temporary closing of the creamery. Word was received almost immediately, however, that milk produced at the Gardiner creamery, and it has been going there since Monday. The trouble here is mainly caused by lack of ice for properly cooling the milk. The ice crop last winter having been far too short. The coming of cold weather which is close at hand, will ret things right. We think the local dairymen deserve credit for doing so well through the summer and fall without this necessary article.

Shawangunk Welcome.

Next Monday evening, November 3, a "Welcome Home Reception" will be given to the boys of Shawangunk who were called to arms at the time of the war in defense of our country's freedom. Most of the boys served in France, but all returned and only one of them was wounded.

PERSHING FOR TRAINED CITIZENS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Oct. 31.—A small standing army with a trained citizen force, is General Pershing's recommendation for the future military policy of the United States.

General Pershing appeared before a joint session of the house and senate military affairs committees today. "Our position in the world is no longer measured by our population and our wealth," said General Pershing, "but by our announced intentions of asserting principles of right and justice."

"Had we been prepared for war, I doubt whether our rights would have been invaded."

A SPIRITED RUNAWAY.

Thursday Afternoon Joseph Murray's Team Created Excitement.

Thursday afternoon Joseph Murray, a retired New York policeman residing on the Rosendale road, was driving into Kingston with his spirited team of horses hitched to a wagon. As he was driving through McEntee street the team became frightened and ran away hurling Mr. Murray and his companion out of the wagon. The runaway team headed straight across Broadway toward Flick's store opposite McEntee street. There is a trolley pole at the corner and the wagon pole struck it squarely in the center while the horses passed to each side of the trolley pole. So fast were the horses traveling that the harness was ripped from their back and the continued on up Broadway. One horse stumbled and fell and was caught by a pedestrian. The other horse was stopped by John Flick. The wagon pole broke loose from the wagon and fell against the plate glass window in the Flick store, cracking it. One of the wheels on the wagon was also smashed. Neither Mr. Murray or his companion were seriously injured, although badly shaken up and bruised by their fall.

More Light on Emanuel Metzger's Legal Record as Corporation Counsel of Kingston

In 1913, Emanuel Metzger, now the Democratic candidate for Mayor, was the Corporation Counsel of the then Democratic administration in Kingston.

At that time the State administration was also Democratic.

In that year, the State Comptroller, through his examiners of municipal accounts, made an examination and report of the financial affairs of Kingston.

This is a part of his report as to the remissness of Mr. Metzger as Corporation Counsel:

"Corporation Counsel.

"The minutes of the Common Council show at various times that the Corporation Counsel has been called upon to push, with greater vigor, the various legal proceedings pending in which the City is interested (minutes pages 57 and 116, Book 14).

"The City has claims pending in the matter of the Marys Avenue improvement; the claim on the bond of ex-Treasurer Boyce, and against the Kingston Consolidated Street Railroad for paving. There are other minor matters which should receive the attention of the Corporation Counsel. The three cases mentioned involve thousands of dollars each and have been pending for a long time. The Marys Avenue improvement especially, has been unreasonably deferred for some years. This latter matter involves a dispute with a property owner as to liability for a special assessment for a local improvement. The City is carrying along a note for $4,400.00 and paying interest on the same year after year, as is shown in the report of disbursements herewith. If the City is entitled to be paid, then it should be determined without further delay and if the contrary is determined the note could be paid off and the annual expense for interest would cease."

The Marys Avenue improvement action referred to had been pending since 1910.

Mr. Metzger did not try it.

Mayor Canfield's administration did cause it to be tried and obtained a favorable decision in both the lower and higher courts, and the assessment was paid.

The claim for $9,400 on the bond of ex-Treasurer Boyce had been pending for a couple of years.

Mr. Metzger recovered no part of it, but hired special counsel to look after it at the City's expense.

Mayor Canfield's administration collected its proportionate dividend from the bankrupt Surety Company, being $1,662.50.

The action against the Kingston Consolidated Railroad was on a claim pending since 1910.

Mr. Metzger recovered no part of it.

Mayor Canfield's administration recovered $6,000, which was twice the amount the preceding administration were willing to accept.

THE TEST OF FUTURE PERFORMANCE OF DUTY IS PAST DEEDS.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

FREEMAN PRICE RAISES NOV. 1.
Under pressure of necessity the price of the Kingston Daily Freeman will be raised on November 1 to three cents a copy, 15 cents a week and $7.50 a year.

We had hoped to avoid this action, thinking that if we could pull through the war period, prices of materials would go down and that our employees would not need material increases of wages. This anticipation has been disappointed. In former years paper mills used to compete for our business, while we have now to beg for supplies and pay what is charged. Besides, our employees are not paid as much as their ability justifies and we are about to increase their compensation. Our total expenses for 1920, in spite of all the economy we can practice, will be tremendously in excess of those of this year. We cannot bring ourselves to diminish the quality of The Freeman, so nothing remains but to increase revenues.

Some time ago the papers in Poughkeepsie, Middletown and other cities, raised their rates to 15 cents a week, and the price in Newburgh is 18 cents. After all, three cents is a ridiculously low price for a modern newspaper and no one who gives the matter a moment's thought is likely to hesitate at paying it.

Of course, The Freeman will carry out its contracts with subscribers who on November 1 are paid in advance.

HARRY ELMENDORF TO LEAVE THE "Y"

Will Join Francis L. Thornberry in Association Work at Niagara Falls—Was an Efficient Worker and Well Liked by Directors.

Harry Elmendorf, assistant secretary of the local Y. M. C. A., has resigned that office to accept a similar position in the "Y" at Niagara Falls of which Francis L. Thornberry, former general secretary of the Kingston association, is general secretary. For some time it has been known to a reporter of The Freeman that Mr. Elmendorf intended going to Niagara Falls, in fact when Mr. Thornberry left this fall he made it known to Mr. Elmendorf that he would want his services in his new charge as soon as he had things "straightened out" in Niagara. Mr. Thornberry had recognized Mr. Elmendorf's efficiency.

While Mr. Elmendorf regrets leaving Kingston because of the pleasant associations he has had with the board of directors of the association and those who frequent the "Y" building, yet he feels that he should take advantage of the opportunity to enter a larger field of service. Mr. Elmendorf has been especially popular with the men of the dormitories at the "Y" because of his genial disposition and his willingness to help them in every possible way. In severing connections here next Monday, he will take with him the best wishes of his many friends in this city.

Because of the fact that no meeting has been held by the board of directors since Mr. Elmendorf announced the rendering of his resignation, no action has been taken by that body as yet. It is altogether likely that when the board does meet it will accept Mr. Elmendorf's resignation with much regret.

POINTS OUT THE INCREASED TAXES

Under the administration of Mayor Canfield the taxes of the city have steadily increased year by year until it has reached in 1919, the enormous sum of $610,694.72, plus the sum of $65,000 borrowed from the banks to be paid out of the taxes collected in 1920. This is an increase of $221,648.23 over the budget of 1913 plus the $65,000 borrowed.

Under the previous administration the budget of 1913 totalled $389,046.23, total sum raised to run the city government. This year's budget was $610,694.72, plus the $65,000 borrowed. Total moneys spent in 1919, $675,694.72.

The taxpayers believing that the city was being too extravagantly managed in 1912, elected Mayor Canfield in the futile hope on his promise of "retrenchment, progress, efficiency and economy," and that the change would bring about a reduction in the taxes. It utterly failed to make good. Now on top of all this lavish expenditure of the taxpayers' money, he says emphatically that he will push as rapidly as possible the Broadway crossing elimination which is going to cost the city, according to his own estimate, the sum of $150,000, while as a matter of fact what the actual cost will be is problematic, but more likely to exceed $200,000. If this lavish expenditure is not halted the taxpayers' property will soon have to be confiscated to pay the taxes. And I now again pledge to the people of Kingston, if I am elected mayor, this lavish expenditure of their money will stop, and only such expenditures as will be necessary and important to safeguard the health and welfare of the city and such progress as a normal tax will permit, will be permitted by me.

E. METZGER,
Democratic Candidate for Mayor.

CHANGE OF TIME

On O. and W. and Probably on West Shore.

A change of time will be made in the running of trains on the Elmendorf-Kingston branch of the O. & W. railroad, Sunday, but the new time schedules have not been received at the Fair street station yet, and Agent Cochran had not been notified of the changes to be made up to noon today.

A change of time is also expected Sunday on the West Shore Railroad, but no particulars had reached the ticket office this morning.

Not Always.

"Talk is cheap." "Don't you believe it. I had to pay ten dollars and come for telling a policeman what I thought of him."

Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt.

A diamond-studded anklet valued at $100,000 and worn by Mrs. Peter Cooper Hewitt, wife of the millionaire inventor, when she returned from Europe several days ago, caused a sensation in New York. Mrs. Hewitt arrived from England on the Mauretania and after dazzling her fellow passengers and Government inspectors with her jeweled trappings stepped into her limousine. The photo of Mrs. Hewitt was made aboard the Mauretania.

Hoss-Sachs.

The custom of using horseshoes instead of the large flat metal rings with which the game of quoits is professionally played was ancient when Joseph Smith wrote his "Sports and Pastimes of the People of England," well over a hundred years ago, and, according to a traveler in modern New England, they are still so used in that part of the world. The traveler tells of seeing two Maine farmers meet early one morning in the road in front of a farmhouse. "I'll play you a game of horseshoes," suggested one. "I'll play you just one game," said the other. "I've got a lot of work to do today," so they began playing, and when the traveler passed that way again late in the afternoon they were still at it. They had been playing horseshoes all day, and the farmer's wife, who had to the traveler, not altogether with admiration, that they hadn't stopped even for dinner.

Life's Damage.

It is much easier to do than to take a vacation. A man who is employed to do his last time may say his house in order in an hour; a few words, written or dictated, will dispose of his possessions, and his heirs will gladly attend to the details. This does not mean that he is a quitter, but that he is a man who knows his life is passing, and he is quite another matter to prepare for a few weeks away from home. There are bills to be paid, the laundress must be checked off, and the daily paper restricted from lifting the doorsteps. There is half to be cut, and teeth to be tinkered, and so on. In short, it takes days to stop the machinery of living for a fortnight, and days to start it going again. But, my dear, one must have a change.—Chicago Tribune.

Round the World in a Day.
A statement was made recently to the effect that in the near future there will be airplanes capable of traveling 800 miles an hour, a possibility that makes the idea of crossing the Atlantic in a day a possibility. And if forward to a race among airplanes to be the first to circle the globe in a day, the latitude of London would require a speed of less than 100 miles an hour.

Character and Work.
Hayden's words are free from personal criticism; it is only by a peculiar statement ever everything by his hand that we are led to exclaim: "The place painted this." We never enjoy a work of Michelangelo with the same intensity. A few words seem to stir us out of each one of them: "I am the work of Michelangelo," and only through his character can the way be found to any correct interpretation. This is the same from Hayden's verse.—Bernard Grimm.
